

1.2 Dispute Resolution Mechanism - within 120 days after Live SRS Launch, GNR shall provide the following information and reports to ICANN.

1.2.1 A statement of the total number of challenges submitted to Phase I Defensive Registrations.

No challenges have been made to Phase 1 Defensive registrations.

1.2.2 A tabulation of the number of Phase I Defensive Registrations subject to multiple Phase I Defensive Registration challenges (i.e. x Phase I Defensive Registrations were subject to exactly two challenges, y Phase I Defensive Registrations were subject to exactly three challenges, etc.).

See response to 1.2.1

1.2.3 A statement of how many Phase I Defensive Registrations sponsored by each Registrar were subject to at least one Phase I Defensive Registration challenge.

See response to 1.2.1

1.2.4 A breakdown by country of the registration offered by the domain-name holder of the number of successful and unsuccessful Phase I Defensive Registration challenges.

See response to 1.2.1

1.2.5 A statement, broken down by sponsoring registrar, of the number of Phase I Defensive Registrations involved in challenges where the Phase I Defensive Registrations holder failed to submit proof of a trademark registration corresponding to the Phase I Defensive Registration challenge after receiving notice of the challenge.

See response to 1.2.1

1.2.6 A statement, broken down by the region of the holder's address as described below, of the number of Phase I Defensive Registrations subject to successful challenges:

1.2.6.1 Africa;

1.2.6.2 Asia Pacific;

1.2.6.3 Europe;

1.2.6.4 Latin America/Caribbean; and

1.2.6.5 North America.

See response to 1.2.1

1.2.7 A statement, broken down by the region of the successful challenger's address as described below, of the number of Phase I Defensive Registrations subject to successful challenges:

1.2.7.1 Africa;

1.2.7.2 Asia Pacific;

1.2.7.3 Europe;

1.2.7.4 Latin America/Caribbean; and

1.2.7.5 North America.

See response to 1.2.1

1.2.8 A statement of the number of successful Phase I Defensive Registration challengers that did not register the challenged string (as either a domain name or SLD E mail address), broken down by priority of the challenger (i.e. x first-priority challengers chose not to register the challenged string; y second priority challengers were offered the opportunity to, but did not, register the challenged string, etc.).

See response to 1.2.1

1.2.9 A statement of the number of Phase I Defensive Registrations voluntarily cancelled.

See response to 1.2.1

1.2.10 A summary of the complaints received from Registrars regarding the challenges to Phase I Defensive Registration.

See response to 1.2.1

1.2.11 A description of significant technical difficulties encountered in connection with the Phase I Defensive Registrations.

No technical difficulties were encountered in connection with the Phase 1 Defensive Registrations

1.2.12 A written evaluation of the overall effectiveness of Phase I Defensive Registrations.

The effectiveness of Phase 1 Defensive Registrations is difficult to gauge given that no feedback or complaints have been received in relation to the defensive registrations. A possible conclusion is that the lack of complaints or challenges indicates that those who have subscribed to Phase 1 Defensive Registrations have fulfilled the eligibility requirements and are legitimate users of Phase 1 Defensive Registrations.
